The 16th Annual Hispanic & Lusophone Studies Symposium at Ohio State April 5-6, 2013

This year’s graduate student organized symposium will resemble the form of an international seminar, in that all presenters will form part of a collective effort to move toward a response of two central problematics involving the Hispanic and Lusophone worlds: Memory/history and universality, local knowledge and global power. The symposium will be divided along these two lines of thought, where we will encourage students of Latin American, Indigenous, Iberian, Colonial Transatlantic, Cultural, Popular Music, Gender and Sexuality, Queer, Film, Caribbean, and Latino Studies to enter into a transdisciplinary and transatlantic dialogue. Within each theme, panels will be formed from the thematic similarities.

Online Lecture on Caribbean Integration

Please click the link for a video of Dr. Lennox Honychurch's lecture on the West Indian Federation and the implications for the present, delivered at UWI, St. Augustine on November 5, 2012.

<<http://http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=dOunU3nE11E>>.

The lecture was delivered as part of the Anthony N. Sabga Caribbean Awards for Excellence annual lecture series in conjunction with the University of the West Indies. It presents a realistic and sobering overview of the Federation idea and its implications for today, indispensable for Caribbeanists.

Dr. Honychurch was the Caribbean Awards Public & Civic Contributions Laureate of 2011. He was also conferred with an honorary doctorate by UWI in 2012.
