

“Sensual Appetite”

What else can I do but recite when inspired by the might of this moment of wondrous flight under the beautiful gleaming light of this moonlit summer night, filled with stars shining so bright, powered by love at first sight, holding you so close, so tight with a passion not so slight, in my reliable arms tonight?

Though the dusk benights, our love is bursting without plight, always ready to ignite, to light the fire in our eyes, never failing to incite a behavior not polite, uncouth and vigorous; not quite an act so forthright, more like a passionate rite that is never, ever trite in finding a way to electrify, trying and getting to excite such a body, exquisite delight, pleasing it with kisses and tender bites, never missing the right sites...